

Image by Martin do Nascimento for Texas Tribune. Mexico, 2016.

THEME: VIOLENCE, MIGRATION & HEALTH

(83 min)

Forced migration has caused a huge spike in the number of refugees and migrants, who often have unique health needs as a result of enduring violence and hardship. Join the Office of Global Public Health and the Pulitzer Center on Crisis Reporting as we explore this issue around the world and the innovative ways that people are trying to address this disparity.

Sponsored by the Office of Global Public Health and the Pulitzer Center on Crisis Reporting

'IN REEL TIME' FILM SERIES: Exploring critical global health issues with the Pulitzer Center on Crisis Reporting

Room 1655 SPH | 11am-12:50pm

Free popcorn will be provided. The following films will be shown:

World Focus: Rape As A Weapon of War in Congo | Finding Therapy in Jordan | Nigeria's Invisible Crisis | Saving Kids from Polio in Islamic State Territory | Millions Are on the Brink of War-Driven Starvation in South Sudan | Pimps and Traffickers Prey on Vulnerable Rohingya Girls | The Unwanted, Part 1 | The Unwanted, Part 2 | Between Borders: American Migrant Crisis

Image by Jason Motlagh. Bangladesh, 2017.

DEC
14

Pulitzer Center

The University of Michigan School of Public Health is proud to work with the Pulitzer Center on Crisis Reporting, an innovative award-winning non-profit journalism organization dedicated to supporting in-depth engagement with underreported global affairs through sponsorship of quality international journalism across all media platforms and a unique program of outreach and education to schools and universities.

To learn more, visit www.pulitzercenter.org.